

MORNING APPEAL.

Saturday.....January 1 1887

NO PAPER.

In order to take off our hat properly to the New Year, no paper will be issued from this office tomorrow.

A HORSE THAT GOES.

The Reno Gazette publishes the following article, that the anti-Stewart morants should all read: The present situation in Nevada brings forcibly to mind the apt reply made by Abraham Lincoln to his friends and advisers who warned him that his Secretary of the Treasury, Salmon P. Chase, was doing all his noble work for political effect and that his sole object in so energetically and successfully handling the finances as to keep the army and navy in funds, was to succeed Mr. Lincoln as President. Honest old Abe listened to it all and then told them a story. He said there was an old farmer in Illinois who was busy ploughing corn one day with an old, sleepy horse that had to be jerked and cracked with the line all the time to keep him moving. Suddenly old Dobbin spruced up and began racing through the furrows in fine style, switching his stump of a tail and making the old man pant to keep up with the plow-handles. A ten-year-old boy who was sitting on the fence yelled out, "say dad, why don't you brush that gad fly off old Dobbin's back?" When the team got round next turn the old fellow called out: "Never you mind that Gad fly, I never saw old Dobbin doing better."

One of the candidates for United States Senate is traveling over the State trying to learn its needs and capabilities, studying its resources and the best means to develop them so as to increase its population, wealth and influence. All the other so-called candidates are devoting their whole time and energy to his defeat. Mr. Stewart is the only one who attempts to formulate any plans to help Nevada. His idea of having the army make surveys of Nevada is an excellent one. It would show where there is good land and mark down the ditches for irrigating it, estimate the costs and profits so that it could be shown to capitalists everywhere, that they might be induced to invest. If this were done for every valley in the State, Nevada could afford to send agents out to induce settlement. And yet his enemies say he is entitled only to abuse because he uses this as an argument in favor of his candidacy. He proposes to annex part of Idaho and part of Utah and thus add to the importance and wealth of the State, reducing taxes and giving us better standing in the sisterhood of States. He expects to get all the Government land donated to Nevada, and every one who knows his tireless energy and the fertility of his resources will know that he can come pretty near getting it. He has fortified himself on the silver question, and will assist such men as Beck to make the fight one of the hardest ever seen in the Senate in the interest of the silver-producing regions of America. Whatever other means of development Mr. Stewart sees, he intends to provide means to encourage, and for this disposition, he is getting thoroughly abused. Surely if it is ambition which makes him show so much energy for the good of the State, it is fortunate for Nevada that she has at least one aspirant whose ambition is in the right direction and Mr. Lincoln's anecdote is to the point.

DO NOT PLEDGE TOO EARLY.

Members of the Legislature should be careful about pledging themselves to every Tom, Dick and Harry who solicits their support for Legislative positions. Hunt their political records up first, and find out all about them. There are scores of the miserable Mugwump breed clamoring for positions, who pulled against the party all through the fight last Fall. Mark these fellows well, and draw the line of demarcation so sharply that the lesson will be long remembered.

When there is any doubt telegraph for particulars to the Central Committee of the County from which the applicant hails. The Mugwumps and all their squealing, kicking associates and belongings ought to be laid on the shelf this year. What is the use of a party where discipline cannot be maintained and which has not the sand to punish its traitors?

Horses for Nevada.

Nevada is well adapted to raising horses and the only question anyone need ask is what style of animal is the most saleable. The runty little scrubs that result from letting animals take their own chance as the Indians do, will never be profitable here or anywhere else. Outside of race horses there are three kinds just as easily raised as scrubs, and they are always saleable. The best is the large handsome carriage horses that are sought for by city people; another is a heavy and strong draft animal; and the third is the stocky, medium-sized, active and untiring cow horse. The blood of the State is being cultivated and the draft horses are becoming much more numerous through the efforts of E. C. Hardy of Toano who is importing the finest animals in carload lots and selling them at prices within the reach all. Mr. Hardy is making energetic efforts to reach the stock men of the State, and his efforts deserve success.
